Resources Available at the Library

Quick Search
Quick Search is a library search engine that you can use to locate most books, ebooks, journal articles, conference proceedings, maps, videos, etc., owned by the library. Quick Search may also suggest databases for you to try to complete a comprehensive search of your topic. To access Quick Search, visit http://libraries.uark.edu. It is the default search on the library’s home page.

Library Catalog
The Library Catalog will help you locate all print and electronic titles owned by the libraries. Unlike Quick Search, it does not search for journal articles. To access the library catalog, visit http://libraries.uark.edu. Select the Library Catalog tab above the search box on the home page.

CINAHL Complete
CINAHL is a comprehensive database of nursing research that covers numerous specialties, including speech language pathology. To access CINAHL (and other databases owned by the library), visit http://libraries.uark.edu. Select the Databases tab above the search box on the home page. Search for databases by title or subject.

TIP: Always access library databases through the library’s home page. If you are off-campus, you will be prompted to enter your UARK credentials in order to access the database.

LibGuides
A LibGuide is a subject-specific guide to resources available through the library. The guide for this course can be found at http://uark.libguides.com/slp. Other guides can be found by clicking LibGuides at the top of the library’s home page. Recommended guides for this course include “APA Style Guide” and “Evidence Based Practice: Some Tools to Find It.”

Inter-Library Loan and Razor Rush
Use ILL books and journal articles that are not available in print at the library or electronically through library-owned resources.

NOTE: Register for ILL on the library’s website or through the form provided on the course LibGuide.

Use Razor Rush to request an electronic copy of a journal article available in print at the library.
