Journalism Professor's Documentaries Now Available Through Institutional Repository

Oct. 09, 2017

Fourteen documentaries created by University of Arkansas professor Larry Foley of the J. William Fulbright College of Arts and Sciences' School of Journalism and Strategic Media are now available for viewing through the U of A's institutional repository, ScholarWorks@UARK.

"I'm very pleased this body of work from my career as a documentary storyteller has a new outlet of distribution. I hope these films will assist students and researchers in future projects, and will be as much fun to watch, as they were to produce," said Foley, who is also chair of School of Journalism and Strategic Media.

Titles include:

- Governor from Greasy Creek, Larry Foley, 1994
- The Keetoowahs Come Home, Larry Foley, 1995
- The Black Swamp, Larry Foley, 1995
- The Lost Squadron, Larry Foley, 1997
- Out of the Woods, Larry Foley, 1997
- Saving the Eagles, Larry Foley, 1998
- Arkansas' Natural Heritage, Larry Foley, 1999
- When Lightning Struck: Saga of an American Warplane, Larry Foley and Dale Carpenter, 2000
Sanatorium Hill, Larry Foley and Dale Carpenter, 2001
The Forgotten Expedition, Larry Foley and Dale Carpenter, 2002
It Started Here: Early Arkansas and the Louisiana Purchase, Larry Foley, 2003
Flight of Glacier Girl, Larry Foley and Dale Carpenter, 2004
Beacon of Hope: The Story of the University of Arkansas, Larry Foley and Dale Carpenter, 2007
Growing Hope: Investing in Human Capital, Jim Borden and Larry Foley, 2012

"These documentaries tell stories from Arkansas history, portray the people of Arkansas, or feature the Arkansas landscape," said Melody Herr, head of the Office of Scholarly Communications. "Anyone can enjoy them, but we hope that educators across the state will find them particularly useful for their classes."

ScholarWorks@UARK is a showcase for the research, scholarship and creative work of the University of Arkansas community, created through a partnership between the University Libraries and the Office for Research and Innovation.

Much of the content is open access, meaning that it is offered to users worldwide for the purpose of furthering research, scholarship and education. For information about participating in ScholarWorks@UARK, see the Guidelines.
